SUMMARY	The aim of this training course is to provide practical tools to participants to improve their communication skills in English for international youth work within the framework of Youth in Action Programme. Methodology: The methodology used in this training activity is based on non-formal education and it is fully functional and topic-related. The TC is aimed at encouraging communication among the participants through simulation activities and communication exercises. Objectives: 1. To provide participants with practical tools to "unblock" and improve their English language skills. 2. To develop strategies to handle communications in international Youth Work.

3. To help participants improve their existing communication skills in English in order to develop international projects in the field of youth work.
4. To rehearse practical situations where English communication is required (presentations of their jobs and tasks, presentations of their organisations, project design and presentation, etc.)
5. To provide information and vocabulary about the Youth in Action Programme.
6. To develop English communication strategies to tackle cultural differences in order to facilitate understanding in intercultural and international environments.
7. To facilitate the building of long-lasting partnerships among participants' organisations for future collaboration in YIA projects.
